rascism is on the rise and that students from both Ventura and Buena High Schools, the city's other public high school, attended a white supremacist meeting called by the leader of a local group of skinheads.

Since the attack on Stout and the proposal of the white student union, several students who had aided either of the groups have been threatened, some students say.

The series of incidents may have started because of misunderstandings about the Black Student Union, school officials said. About a third of its 50 members are not black.

"There were a few kids who didn't know what the club was about and instantly pictured black militancy," said history teacher David Davis, who was the Black Student Union advisor when the club was last active in 1989. "They were very threatened. They felt it was a negative deal.

Robert G. Kauffman, editor of the school newspaper, said that if the white club were approved, it might cause more racial violence on campus.

"To the public, the club is saying they want to educate the students, but my opinion is that it is racially motivated," he said. "The black students are an underrepresented group and they need some clubs to show that they're somebody on Dantona also formed a nonprofit organization, Baseballs Against Drugs, which recruits major league baseball players to speak to young people about the dangers of drugs.

As a county transportation commissioner, he was responsible for putting together an eight-county summit on rail safety in the wake of the train derailment and toxic spill at Sunset, he said.

"It's a hands-on person," he said, "and I will be a hands-on city councilman.

But Stratton and Mikels said Huber has the edge on Dantona because he has served on the council before and has remained active in community organizations and campaigns.

"No one is saying Dantona doesn't have credentials," said Stratton, one of the people who phoned Huber to suggest that he consider running for a seat on the council. "It just isn't comparable to what Huber has. I've worked with Huber. He has a tremendous wealth of knowledge and he is competent.

Stratton said Dantona's ties to Roberts, who is an avid Democrat and supporter of the liberal Democratic policies of the past, would probably hurt him more than help him in an area that is predominantly Republican.

"I think one has to ask how his experience in Roberts' office is garnering the support of the city of Simi Valley, which is a conservative Republican community," Stratton said.

Huber, who is partners in a Simi Valley law firm with Russell Takeda, son of Oxnard Mayor Mino Takeda, was elected to the City
